

"Girls-For-Hire" Trial Under Way In London Court

LONDON (CP)—The Crown Miss Keeler admitted she had put Dr. Stephen Ward on trial today before a jury of 11 men and a woman and accused him of five vice charges that revolved around his keeping pretty girls as sex pets for hire to men.

Christine Keeler, wearing a gold suit, was the first witness for the prosecution. The red-haired party girl testified with a British accent, and a Soviet embassy aide came near to laughing Prime Minister Macmillan's Conservative government.

As she had done before, Miss Keeler denied a prosecution claim in Old Bailey court that she ever went to bed with the 50-year-old society osteopath. But she said it was with a man introduced by Ward that she first committed an act of prostitution.

Miss Keeler's testimony before the London trial was mostly a recital of evidence at Ward's earlier trial. It was only necessary for the authoritatively party girl to appear in person to create a sensation.

ASKED TO SPEAK UP

Mr. Justice Sir Archie Martin, who presided at the earlier trial, asked Miss Keeler to speak up in a low voice.

Christine Called "Sort Of Bird-Dog" For Bringing Home Likely Girls

Prosecutor Mervyn Griffith-Jones told the court the heart of his case was this: From June, 1961, to Aug. 31, 1962, Ward and Christine Keeler lived at a flat in Wimpole Mews, London, and he hired her out for the sexual gratification of various men.

After Christine left the flat, Mervyn went to live there, for the same purpose the prosecutor said.

Griffith-Jones said that after Miss Keeler and Miss Rice-Davies left Ward, the osteopath used his flat for prostitutes bed-room and took a cut of the profits.

If convicted of all of the five charges, still lodged against him, Ward could be sentenced to as much as 25 years in prison.

"I am a fool with money," Griffith-Jones quoted Ward as telling the police when arrested. "And I live in a state of poverty."

Griffith-Jones said that after Miss Keeler and Miss Rice-Davies left Ward, the osteopath used his flat for prostitutes bed-room and took a cut of the profits.

Labor Troubles In B.C. Show Signs Of Clearing

VANCOUVER (CP)—The troubled labor situation in British Columbia began to clear Sunday with settlement in one area of the fisheries strike, cancellation of a scheduled strike against oil refineries and ending of a threatened dockworkers' walkout.

The first sign of settlement in the strike by the United Fishermen and Allied Workers' Union and the British Columbia Fishermen's Cooperative Association was a 42 percent wage increase and additional fringe benefits.

This will allow the Prince Rupert Fishermen's Cooperative Association to start operating immediately. Six hundred boats operate out of Prince Rupert and sell their fish to the co-op.

Fishermen at the port own the co-op and were never directly involved in a strike, although they did not fish.

The UFAWU and the Fisheries Association of B.C., representing most companies, still were at odds with no sign of settlement and no new talks planned.

The $70,000,000 industry has been tied up for nine days.

Fishermen want higher salmon prices and dockworkers want higher wages.

Oil workers at four refineries in the Vancouver area were granted almost all their contract demands in an 11th hour settlement which averted a strike by 500 employees today.

The temp could have cut off lower mainland gasoline supplies to all but essential services. Only one refinery would not have been affected.

Members of Local 1646 of the Oil, Chemical and Atomic Workers' Union (OCA) voted Sunday in favor of a settlement proposed by conciliation officer Reg Clements. The companies, which previously rejected a conciliation offer, also accepted the settlement.

Workers will receive a seven-cent across-the-board wage increase retroactive to Feb. 1, 1964. Present wages range from $1.87 for laborers to $3.10 for head operators.

More than 1,700 members of the International Longshoremen and Warehousemen's Union (ILA) will return to work today while negotiations with the B.C. Shipping Federation, representing the employers, continue.

Vancouver and New Westminster longshoremen stopped work Friday to discuss an impasse in wage talks.

Two meetings at the weekend averted a walkout.

Hoffa Due For Trial Today; Blames Troubles On Kennedys

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP)—Teamsters Union President James Hoffa goes into U.S. district court today for a pre-trial hearing on the indictment charging him and 10 others with jury-tampering.

Hoffa arrived here by private plane Sunday night and repeated charges that President Kennedy and U.S. Attorney General Robert Kennedy are conducting a "vendetta" against him.

"If he (the president) didn't like what his brother is doing, he would get rid of him," said Hoffa. "That's all there is to it."

Hoffa said that in running the 1,500,000-member Teamsters Union he is "doing an excellent job, despite Bobby Kennedy."

"I know my business," Hoffa said. "It's just that Kennedy doesn't know his. Bobby Kennedy ought to spend his time doing something about rising unemployment and slowing down and awful crime rate and not giving U.S. money away to the Cubans. He thinks he's president. That's his trouble."

More than 100 witnesses have been subpoenaed to testify at the hearing before U.S. District Judge Frank Gray Jr.

Hoffa and the others were indicted following the labor leader's conspiracy trial here last year at which he was accused of violating the federal labor act by accepting illegal payments from a trucking firm. That case ended in a mistrial when the jury failed to agree on a verdict.

Canada Exempt From JFK's Tax On Investments

"Major Change Of Course" Cheers Industry And Ottawa

OTTAWA (CP)—A weekend of top-level negotiations in Washington has won the promise of exemption for Canada from the main impact of President Kennedy's proposed new tax on American purchases of foreign securities.

The exemption, expected to be an absolute one, would be for new Canadian securities issued on the U.S. market.

It was good news for provinces, municipalities and corporations who raise funds through bond issues floated in New York.

It was also good news for the government which had seen the prospect of higher interest rates, higher unemployment and foreign exchange reserve problems if this source of funds was cut off.

Finance Minister Gordon said the deal Sunday, U.S. gold reserves, which had been falling, would be stabilized by the U.S. administration's late last week and legislative move.

He said American officials called to Washington a group of Canadian government to create a situation "where our economic expansion would be slowed down, with resulting actual unemployment."

DIEF COMMENTS

Opposition Leader Diefenbaker commented that the new agreement is "a step in the right direction."

But he said the announcement still left unsettled some aspects of the proposed law on American foreign securities purchases. He said he hadn't understood why the tax should have been applied to Canada at all.

The proposed U.S. tax of up to 15 per cent on new American securities investments abroad, announced Thursday by President Kennedy, had been aimed at reducing heavy outflows of U.S. capital which have cut into U.S. gold reserves.

After talks with U.S. diplomats, Canadian officials here late last week and legislative move.

He said American officials called to Washington a group of Canadian government to create a situation "where our economic expansion would be slowed down, with resulting actual unemployment."

Producer Claims Regatta 'Not Played Up Enough'

Ben Kopelow, producer of the night shows for the 57th Kelowna Regatta, said Sunday night the Regatta should be in the same class as the Calgary Stampede.

Mr. Kopelow arrived in Kelowna from Vancouver late Sunday with his family and will remain until the end of the Regatta on Aug. 3.

"The residents of Kelowna are almost guilty of playing the Regatta down," he said. "There is no reason why this show can't be as spectacular as the Stampede, all it needs is a spark, and I have come to do my best to provide that spark."

"There are tremendous possibilities here."

FINEST VEHICLE

"This is the finest vehicle I have ever seen. You can really get enthused about a job like this when you realize what can be done."

"The Regatta has as good a program as any big city fair and the setting is better."

"Comparing Kelowna to Vancouver, if you take the atmosphere of the Kitchikano Showboat, the setting of the Theatre Under the Stars in Stanley Park, the excitement of the Pacific National Exhibition and the athletic features of the British Empire Games swim trials, you still haven't covered everything."

FAMILY SHOW

"This is a family show. There is truly something for all ages, and that is not just a publicist's idea. The features are here."

"We have top night club acts, a touch of the Calgary Stampede and there isn't a setting like this anywhere," he said.

Mr. Kopelow was asked to come and "catch" the show two years ago by the late Dave Morris, who regularly did the lighting.

PLACE ALIVE

"I didn't realize there was anything besides the stage show. When we arrived at 9 p.m. the place was alive! There were things going on all over."

"I became so enthused about the possibilities, I started making notes right then."

"I have been working since then for an opportunity to see what I could do with the show. "I haven't had such an opportunity in years," he said.

NO LIMITS

Speaking of the setting, Mr. Kopelow said he had never seen a situation with a mountain in the background, a pool such as this, together with seating for over 5,000 people.

"There just aren't any limits," he said.

Mr. Kopelow was in Kelowna on July 3 and 4 and at that time planned the overall show. Since then committee chairmen and their helpers and those taking part in the show, have been working to bring their part up to first class standard.

POLISH IT

"Now all we have to do is polish, set the timing, arrange the sequences, and we are going to have the best night show the Regatta has ever seen," he said.

"The stars, the orchestra, and the other people we are bringing in, think it is fun to be in Kelowna at this time of year. They are all bringing their families and are going to make a holiday out of it. But they are going to work too. They couldn't be more enthused about the possibilities."

Cloudy Sky During Eclipse Failed To Thwart Scientists

By THE CANADIAN PRESS
The sun's eclipse Sunday played hide-and-seek with the casual observer but did not thwart the studies by teams of scientists gathered across Canada.

It was Canada's first total eclipse since 1914, and the last until 1972. Researchers along a 60-mile wide path of totality reported generally good results. Data pertaining to space travel, weather, communications and the general behavior of cosmic bodies was collected as the band of darkness swept from Japan, across Canada from the Yukon to the Maritimes, and into the Atlantic.

Direct television coverage by the CBC of the eclipse was possible only when a break suddenly appeared in thick overcast at Grand-Mere, Que., 145 minutes after the moon had started to move between the sun and earth.

Residents of Snag in the Yukon, first populated area of Canada in the path of the moon's shadow, saw nothing of the event as it came and went behind a blanket of cloud and rain.

However, clouds were no problem for a Canadian-British team working in northern Alberta. The scientists made their studies from an IICAP aircraft at 30,000 feet, well above the cloudy cover.

ENSURES GOOD VIEWING

Purpose of the flight was two-fold—to ensure good viewing conditions and to enable the scientists to record the blackout for a longer period. In that area the moon's shadow was travelling over earth at a speed of 1,700 miles an hour. On the ground total eclipse lasted for 99 seconds, but in the flying laboratory scientists lost sight of the sun

Highways Not Local; They Benefit All

Anyone with eyes on our success or anyone who takes his car to the gas station knows that the highways are the lifeblood of the province. They are the arteries that carry the goods and services of the province to the rest of the world.

Thanks to the Rogers Pass, the Okanagan is no longer a dead end. It is a gateway to the rest of the province. It is a gateway to the rest of the world.

An indication of what is happening is given by the figures of the Kootenay Lake ferry service. In June of 1962, these ferries carried 19 thousand odd cars while in June of this year they carried 19 thousand odd cars.

The situation in the Kootenays is a perfect illustration of what a road can do. It is a road that has been built by the people of the province. It is a road that has been built by the people of the world.

The Southern Transprovincial Highway has been improved. One major undertaking, the elimination of the tortuous and rough climb over the two humps of the Monastere range between Cascade and Kowland, has been successfully and admirably eliminated. This fall the Salmo-Creston cutoff will be opened and this will eliminate another major barrier, the Kootenay Lake ferries. Next year, certainly, the Kootenays will receive a much larger volume of tourist traffic than it is this year.

Nelson, not unnaturally, is not completely happy about the Salmo-Creston cutoff as it will leave that city some twenty-five miles off the main highway. But Nelson, we think, should not worry too much. It has a charm and a location not enjoyed by any other city in the Kootenays and an effective publicity campaign in the right centres should draw more tourists than it is now receiving. If there is desire to go to a place, twenty-five miles is no deterrent. On the new road, Nelson will be much closer to Creston in both miles and time than it is over the terrible Kootenay Blackfoot route. The latter stretch may be scenic but it is very slow and narrow and, in spots, dangerous. The driver certainly has no opportunity to appreciate the scenery.

It is also to be expected that a new bridge is to be constructed across the Columbia at Kamloops, two miles south of Castlegar, and a new road running south-east to join the present main Salmo road some miles east of the latter city.

Thus, both major cities of the Kootenays are to be bypassed, but the new Southern Transprovincial, when completed, will probably more than compensate. It will be a road that will be a boon to the area and travel naturally is to and from them. Number Three Highway east has not been under way for a long time before construction of the Hope-Penticton section. Okanagan people, and others, were forced to go south of the border. So it has been going east. Probably more Okanagan people have been in Italy and Nelson this year than in the past five years, thanks to the Columbia Lake-Kamloops new section.

Highways can make a difference. Sometimes they appear to have a commodity that is more in appearance than in fact. Any improved highway helps any and all other communities in the province. The Yellowhead highway when built will help the Okanagan and the Kootenays. And so will the Prince Rupert highway when it is completed. Directly and indirectly there is no B.C. highway which does not help the Okanagan—or the Kootenays—or the Cariboo—or the Lower Mainland. Highways are not local. The Kootenays may at the moment feel the Rogers Pass has hurt them. A year or two hence when our prairie and Lower Mainland friends realize that Number Three, too, is a good highway, they'll be using them both on a circle tour—out one way, home the other.

Reform Badly Needed

Perhaps there is something in the contention of the Financial Post that our system of budget-making at Ottawa needs reform. With the complications of modern government business, it says, it is almost impossible for budget planners to foresee all the ramifications of their tax plans when they are actually applied to the realities of various businesses.

"We should learn something from the British and the Americans," adds The Post, "where proposed tax changes get widepread discussion before enactment. Prime Minister Pearson seems to be coming around to accept this view. Our system of secret bureaucratic budget hatching, dramatic announcement and almost instantaneous enactment doesn't make sense in today's world where taxation is so complex and an inevitable element in all business decisions."

This helps to explain the predicament in which Finance Minister Gordon found himself in his budgetary pronouncements at the present parliamentary session. The Toronto paper rather overstates its case, however, when it argues that there is "lots of precedent" for the changes Mr. Gordon made under pressure from the taxpayers. "Donald Fleming," it says, "made 14 changes in budget measures in his career as finance minister, withdrawing some and altering others. Earlier finance minister have wisely done the same thing when proposed measures proved, on wider scrutiny, to have completely unintended side effects."

The difference here was in the extent and effect of the changes. Mr. Gordon's were so sweeping as to make his original budget almost unrecognizable, affecting his estimated revenue for the year to the tune of $100,000,000 and causing widespread confusion in the construction industry and on the stock markets. The "public explosions" set off by his budget—as The Post calls them—never occurred before because the changes on previous occasions were of a comparatively minor nature.

This does not stultify the argument for the need of reform in the matter of preparing the budget. The Toronto Globe and Mail suggests, in this connection, a two-pronged reformation. Within the Cabinet, it says, there should be a committee of policy makers. On occasion this committee could be enlarged by the addition of certain civil servants and the Governor of the Bank of Canada. This committee should then, throughout the year, assemble in Ottawa groups of business leaders from all over the country in vigorous and informal work sessions.

In this way the academic views of civil servants would be balanced by the practical views of business, and the executive committee of the Cabinet would be furnished with broad information of both sorts on which to base policy. What the Cabinet committee would then select for use in the budget, of course, would be the committee's secret until it was told in the House. These basic budget decisions should be made by the committee, not by the finance minister working alone.

This, of course, wouldn't ensure a painless budget; but it would prevent a repetition of the lamentable exhibition given by Mr. Gordon on this occasion.

DOUBLES TROUBLES

Establishment's Upper Lip Not So Stiff After Profumo

LONDON (AP)—The Profumo scandal has shattered the image of the British upper establishment as a bastion of the right establishment.

It takes something to do that. For the Establishment is an image of the nation's elite.

Over the years, the image of the Establishment has been built up by the actions of its members. It has been built up by the actions of its members.

There are a few notable exceptions, but these are the exceptions. The Establishment is not so stiff after Profumo.

Sir Michael Adeane, 52, private secretary to the Queen, is the key to the establishment. He is the key to the establishment.

Pearson Emerges As Great Leader

By PATRICK NICHOLSON

Patrick Nicholson's guest columnist today is Robert Macdonald, Liberal M.P. for Port Huron, Ont.

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP)—days have been 41 on 30-year-old Awesome Sam's "little red" and "small formidable" feet to retain the world heavyweight title in tonight's fight with Floyd Patterson, the man he utterly wrecked in one devastating round in Chicago last Sept. 22.

Scheduled for 15 rounds, although you can get even money in Las Vegas gambling parlors that he won't go four, this is the last time he should appear around here at 7:30 p.m. PST.

A capacity crowd of almost 8,000 will watch in person in the Las Vegas Convention Centre, and an undetermined number will view it in more than 140 theatre and other outlets around the nation via closed circuit television.

The rematch, one that many thought never would take place, one that many felt shouldn't take place, figures to draw around $250,000 in the "live" gate and upward of $700,000 from television and movie returns.

This would be far less than the $4,000,000-plus paid out for the original match, a statistic easily explained by the tick of a stopwatch. The first one lasted two minutes six seconds, third quickest in heavyweight title boxing history.

No surprises were expected at the weigh-in.

YOUR HOROSCOPE

FOR TOMORROW

With a spirit of enterprise and keen analysis of all situations, you should be able to handle almost any job well now. Do not, however, consider plans made for the future as final. You may have to do a bit of re-evaluating and make some improvements.

FOR THE BIRTHDAY

If tomorrow is your birthday, your horoscope indicates that in the period between August and late December, job, part-time and financial matters should go exceptionally well. Do not, however, let excessive optimism lead you into extensive speculation in January, since this will be a "slow-down" cycle and you may also face some unforeseen expenses. Mid-February will initiate an intensely loyal to loved ones.

Harrowing Drive To Hope Proves Highway Possibility

HOPE (CP)—Sixty-one cars, the caravan frequently to help loaded with some 200 persons, bugged down cars and open gies, barring private roads. Permission of the owners was granted.

It took seven hours to do it. And they had to travel over an old railway bed, part of a 100-year-old Royal Engineers' road, a logging road and two pipeline maintenance roads. But they proved that the distance between Merritt and Hope, about 150 miles by highway, can be cut to 72 miles. Representatives from Merritt, Hope, Kamloops, Princeton, Peleton and other Interior communities made the trip in a bid to build a highway here in September. The Hants department is a more direct route between Merritt and Hope. Two cars didn't make it. Drivers were forced to stop automobiles.
